

Competition requires competitors to be alive. If the FCC lifts the dominant classification from the Local Exchange Carriers (Bells), it will limit competition to a duopoly consisting of a bell and a cable company. Neither of these have proven that they can provide decent service for a fair price. They should be made to compete in a a very profitable market. Allowing others to buy wholesale services from Bells and Cable compaines will force the quality to be of the highest quality [in the world].
